

Dream. Dare. Become.

Some call it “liberal arts.” Here, it’s called the College of Arts and Behavioral Sciences and it offers degrees in 17 undergrad programs, ranging from creative writing to communication, political science, sociology, criminal justice, music and more.

It’s also called learning for life ... A well-rounded experience fostered by caring faculty, with small classes where you are the center of learning and have opportunities to work on important research.

Learning that is hands-on, personal and powerful. Undergrad as well as master’s programs in Communication and Multimedia, and Administrative Leadership. Now that’s an education.

*Something More.
Something Better.*
