Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum Accredited

The Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum has achieved accreditation from the American Alliance of Museums (AAM), the highest national recognition for a museum. Accreditation signifies excellence to the museum community, to governments, funders, outside agencies, and to the museum-going public.

AAM Accreditation is the field’s primary vehicle for quality assurance, self-regulation, and public accountability, and earns national recognition for a museum for its commitment to excellence in all that it does: governance, collections stewardship, public programs, financial stability, high professional standards, and continued institutional improvement. Developed and sustained by museum professionals for 35 years, AAM’s Museum Accreditation program strengthens the profession by promoting practices that enable leaders to make informed decisions, allocate resources wisely, and to provide the best possible service to the public.

“Accreditation is something the Museum board and staff have been committed to for several years. The means to the end was challenging and time consuming, but we have all become better museum professionals in the process,” said Marilyn Wheaton, Museum Director.

Of the nation’s estimated 17,500 museums, 1,005 are currently accredited. The Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum is one of only 25 museums accredited in Michigan.

Events & Schedules

Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum

The exhibition, The Lightness of Being, New Sculpture, Howard Ben Tré will be on display through Saturday, June 29 at the Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum.

Howard Ben Tré is internationally recognized for his unique sculptures and large-scale works of art for public and private spaces. Ben Tré is a pioneer in the use of cast glass as a sculptural medium and his work is included in more than 85 museum and public collections worldwide.

“Howard Ben Tré’s work is especially intriguing and noteworthy in that he excels at creating small to monumental size cast glass sculptures for both public and private spaces. We are thrilled to have the opportunity to host an exhibition of the works on paper and sculpture of a great American contemporary sculptor at the Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum,” said Museum Director Marilyn L. Wheaton.

This exhibition was organized by the Habatat Galleries, Contemporary Art Glass, of Royal Oak, Michigan.
