

For JESS, of Charles Manson:

Illegitimate child of a 16 yr old prostitute.

Rhiny | stature. *

Early life of petty crime.

Powerful manipulative people skills acquired as a defense because of small stature and street lifestyle (and perhaps low self-esteem?)

Sits on a boulder, or perches on the back of a chair, to give himself height during interviews. *

He carefully selected his followers - weak people - then instilled a highly structured delusional system that left him in complete control of their minds and bodies.

Understanding of and power over inadequate people.

Is Jess illiterate?

Is he a law enforcement buff? * (Mindhunter p105)

Does he have a speech impediment? *

2nd draft outline
with colored notes.

A charismatic person gives you the feeling that you are being seen for the first time in your life.

Introductory,

Someone who leans for a Melancholic . . .

Jen believes he is smarter than everyone else in the world. He thought his commune would take over the world.

Maybe the commune has problems before the dawn. Kids who do not accept the philosophy, want to go into town and hang.

Jen is playful.

Everything Jen does seems wonderful to Melancholic (although we have our doubts.)

Melancholic must believe that what Jen is doing is for the larger good.

Jen seems like the next charismatic person but he can set off an earthquake because it's all pretence.
