DESCRIBE YOUR MOST SIGNIFICANT ACCOMPLISHMENT DURING YOUR EMPLOYMENT. Because the military is so diversified and rewarding, each successive step is an accomplishment. For me two accomplishments are equal in significance. First, as Battery Commander it was the challenge of leading young Americans in combat. Second, as an instructor, to act as a guiding force in the development of Officer and Enlisted personnel alike. During this time over eighty five per cent of the one hundred fifty hours of Lance missile system instruction were created.

DESCRIBE THE MOST INTERESTING ASSIGNMENT YOU HAD WHILE IN THE SERVICE.
Serving in Viet Nam as a Battery Commander of a self propelled howlitzer battery. This position is challenging and interesting under normal conditions, but even more so in combat. It was necessary to manage people, equipment, and ideas. These areas are always a challenge. However, combat adds an undecscribeable element. As in any management position imagination and drive are key elements. As Battery Commander, one must draw heavily on imagination and intellect to accomplish the mission.

DESCRIBE ANY LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCE YOU MAY HAVE HAD IN COLLEGE, THE SERVICE, EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES OR JOBS. (CONTINUE ON SEPARATE SHEET, IF NECESSARY.)

Serving in the United States Army as an officer experience is gained only by the exercise of leadership. It is the primary responsibility of an officer to exercise leadership in every task attempted. As an officer in a basic training unit it is necessary to aggressively establish the standards for each trainee. These standards are the foundation for the rest of their military experience. In combat, leadership is the key to success. Serving in a position with specific responsibilities, such as a forward observer or Battery Executive (cont)

Remarks:

Officer, leadership is exercised by direct aggressive overseeing of every task to be accomplished. As a Battery Commander with general managerial and overall mission responsibility, leadership is exercised by outlining tasks to be accomplished by subordinates. Then periodic aggressive checks insure that the tasks have been accomplished in a timely and professional manner. As an instructor in a service school, like that of a training officer, standards must be established for the development of officers and senior enlisted personnel. Because of experience gained from other assignments, leadership is exercised by the professional transmission of highly technical knowledge.
