

Mr. Stauffer:

The only comments I have on the book are as follows:

- 1) Page 50 - In my opinion, there is too much detail on Perot's activity on the POW issue. It gets boring and takes away from the story at hand.
- 2) Page 226 -- Same kind of comment, really. Bill Gaylord is going back over all his thoughts in great detail and I just got bogged down in reading it. (You didn't know I was a great book critic, did you?)
- 3) Thought the book was great! I thought it read well and was very interesting and entertaining. (Bearing in mind as many times as I've heard it, typed it, transcribed it, etc. -- that's a miracle to me.)
