

MEMORANDUM

TO: Ken Follett
FROM: Merv Stauffer
DATE: December 6, 1982
RE: Telephone Conversation with Harry Simons

This morning Harry called me. He had received the third draft on Friday and read it over the weekend.

Page 102, paragraph 2 has a sentence which specifies the daily cost of his heroine and cocaine habit. Harry is concerned that the amount is of sufficient size to cause him a problem. He does not mind referring to the fact that he had a drug problem; however, he wishes it would not specify the dollar volume.

Other than that one comment he felt the book was "fantastic".