Kathy Marketos' last name is spelled incorrectly. It should be Marketos.

2. Pages 210-211 --

I was in the room next to Ross at the Hyatt in Tehran. Our two rooms had a third door to the hotel hallway, which we locked at night for security. Each morning Ross came in and caught me shaving in my underwear and paced up and down talking about his plans for that day. The discussion would continue at breakfast with the whole team. The team would then head to the office to carry out the plan, leaving Ross at the hotel. Usually by 10:00 the plan was a shambles due to various reasons such as mobs prohibiting us from reaching meetings, etc.

Best regards.
