AMBASSADOR'S VISIT NOW SET FOR MARCH 23

The visit by James C. H. Shen, Ambassador of the Republic of China to the United States, which was postponed on January 26 when blizzard conditions shut down most Valley activity, is now slated for Thursday, March 23. He will visit SVSC, as well as members of the Chinese community from the Valley area.

Included on Ambassador Shen's agenda will be a major address entitled "Free China's Strategy for Economic Prosperity and Social Progress", which will be presented free to the general public at 8:00 p.m. in the SVSC Theatre. He will discuss present and future implications of economic cooperation between the U.S. and the Republic of China.

Shen was spokesman for the government of the Republic of China before accepting his present position and previously was press representative for Madame Chiang Kai Shek. He will appear in a 1:30 p.m. press conference Thursday on campus, where he plans to answer questions about the economic development of the Republic of China and its plans for the future.

That afternoon he will address members of the Academy of Applied Philosophy from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. He will then be guest of honor at an all-college reception in Doan Center.

The Ambassador's appearance, sponsored by Fellows of the Academy of Applied Philosophy, has been arranged by Dr. Robert S. P. Yien, Vice President for Academic Affairs.

STATE DEPARTMENT EXPERT TO LECTURE HERE

Behind-the-scenes information on the recently-negotiated Panama Canal Treaty will be revealed here Friday by a high ranking State Department official.

Richard Barkley, Deputy Director for Central European Affairs, U.S. Department of State, will visit the campus to present a free lecture this Friday, March 10, at 8:00 p.m. in the SVSC Theatre. The program is being sponsored by the Academy of Applied Philosophy.

Barkley was on the negotiating delegation in Panama and worked closely with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker when the Panama Canal Treaty details were worked out. He spent three years on the Canal negotiation assignment and has since been promoted to his present post.

U.S. relationships with central European countries including Poland and its ties to East Germany are currently under his jurisdiction and he is involved at present with Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (S.A.L.T.) negotiations. He is coming to SVSC partly because of the College's Institute of Polish Studies.

Barkley has served two previous stints at the U.S. Embassy in West Germany and has also been on the diplomatic staff in Finland and the Dominican Republic. He was at the U.S. Embassy in that Central American nation during its May 1965 revolution when U.S. marines were landed there. Having gun shots ring out over his head was nothing new for Barkley, who was also a liaison for NATO affairs during the 1956 Czechoslovakian uprising.

Tickets will not be required for the lecture, and further information is available by contacting the Office of Sponsored Programs at ext. 351.

The day-long workshop in Doan Center is a practice improvement project designed for Valley area social workers. Co-sponsors are the SVSC Department of Social Work, National Association of Social Work Michigan State Chapter, and the Saginaw Valley NASW.

Leila Whiting, American Council of Social Work Project Director with the National Association of Social Work Practice Improvement Project in Washington, D.C., will be workshop leader. She has been director of NASW's child abuse and neglect training project and has published articles on emotional neglect, protective services, and violence. She brings to the session a broad background in training throughout the country, including prior work in psychiatric clinics, family agencies, community work, private practice, and education.

Areas of focus will include re-parenting, use of authority, limit-setting, supportive techniques, parenting, and protective services. Following at 8:30 a.m. registration, an overview on violence in society will be presented at 9:00. The workshop will include lectures, group discussions, and films, with participants asked to share case illustrations from their own practice.

Spouse and child abuse will be discussed in detail as examples of family violence. Suggestions for treatment techniques will be discussed, emphasizing psychodynamics of the families involved.

"This workshop is designed to explore the many underlying causes of violence in the family, putting into perspective the individual who is violent, the social context in which this violence takes place, and the contributing background of the individual," said Ms. Karen Harper, SVSC's Social Work Department chairperson. Further information is available from Ms. Harper at ext. 506.
