JOHN A. CLINKENBEARD
PROFESSOR OF ACCOUNTING

FOR LIBRARY USE ONLY

DR. SUSIE B. EMOND
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF EDUCATION

TWO EARN TOP FACULTY HONOR

John A. Clinkenbeard, professor of accounting, and Dr. Susie B. Emond, associate professor of education, are 1984-85 recipients of the Franc A. Landee Award for Excellence in Teaching. Announcement came Tuesday at a luncheon honoring Clinkenbeard and Emond. They also will be recognized at SVSC's commencement ceremonies on May 3 and 4.

Clinkenbeard joined the SVSC faculty in 1969 and played an active role in the development of the college's business and management program to the status of an academic school. He has served as chair of the accounting department, and has taught accounting at all undergraduate levels.

"I came to SVSC because the possibility of starting a school which had no previous history or tradition was a very exciting prospect," Clinkenbeard said. "I have not been disappointed. I am very happy with what we have done, and I think what we have accomplished is very worthwhile."

Prior to his post at SVSC, Clinkenbeard taught at Syracuse University, Western Reserve University, and Earlham College. He holds M.B.A. and A.B. degrees from the University of Chicago. His professional memberships include the American Accounting Association and the National Association of Accountants. He is a member of Beta Alpha Psi and Beta Gamma Sigma. He and his wife, Ellen, reside in Midland and are the parents of three daughters.

Dr. Emond began teaching at SVSC in 1978. Her first career, however, was as an elementary school teacher. She taught seven and eight year olds at the University of Florida lab school from 1972 to 1977. Prior to that, she held various elementary school teaching positions.

"I began teaching at the college level to try to make a difference to more children in the classroom," Emond said. "Helping children become successful readers is important to teachers and parents alike. My guiding philosophy in working with graduate and undergraduate education majors is to give them methodology of developmental reading and practical applications that will work in the classroom."

After earning bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Indiana State University, Emond completed an Ed.D. in curriculum instruction with a major in reading at the University of Florida. She has presented numerous papers and speeches on the topic. She currently serves as president of the Saginaw Area Reading Council.

Emond's professional memberships include the International Reading Association, the Michigan Reading Association, the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, Michigan Education Association and the National Education Association.

She is married to John Emond. The couple and their two children reside in Saginaw Township.
