'HOLLYWOOD' HENDERSON TO APPEAR AT SVSU

Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson, one of the most celebrated professional football players of the 1970s, will appear on campus to discuss his profession and the obstacles he faced en route to overcoming the addictions that cost him that career.

Henderson will speak at 8 p.m., Monday, Jan. 25, in the Theatre.

He was the No. 1 selection of the Dallas Cowboys in the 1975 National Football League draft. A two-time All-American football star from a small college in Oklahoma, Henderson soon became one of the most flamboyant football players of the '70s.

He appeared in three Super

Bowls during his seven years as a linebacker with the NFL. However, his career was cut short by an addiction to alcohol and drugs.

During his travels from "Super Bowl to cellblock," Henderson learned valuable lessons that he has relayed to many audiences. He delivers his anti-alcohol and anti-drug message through a very sobering account of his obsession with alcohol and cocaine and his continuing efforts to "stay clean."

Henderson has conducted numerous seminars and lectures on drug abuse and counseled other addicts while in prison. He is the author of the soon-to-be released autobiography, "Out of Control."

Admission is $2 for the public and free to students with SVSU identification.

Etceteras ...

(The following letter recently was received in the President's Office from Dr. Duane R. Milano, a professor at East Texas State University and an SVC 1970 bachelor of arts degree recipient)

"Dear President Ryder:

You sure do know how to mess up an academic vita! And boy do I love it. Congratulations on the name change from Saginaw Valley State College to Saginaw Valley State University. As a 1970 graduate of Saginaw Valley College, I am proud to see the name of the institution reflect the current breadth of the curriculum offered.

You, the faculty and the staff, as well as all the past and present students, are to be commended. I know you will continue to do those things at Saginaw Valley State University that will enhance my degree. I thank you."

Sincerely,

Duane R. Milano,
Ph.D., C.M.A., C.C.A.

NEW LOGO INTRODUCED

Incorporating its status change, Saginaw Valley State University recently introduced its new logo and typeface.

According to the logo's designer, Gayle Leece, publications designer in the Office of Information Services, the typeface was selected for legibility and readability, as well as clarity of design and projected image.

The typestyle, Optima, was designed by Herman Zapf of the International Typeface Corp.

The nesting of the "S"s with the "V" and "U" represent the Saginaw Valley, in which the University resides, according to Leece.

The new logo and typeface will be introduced on a variety of University-produced and sponsored literature and materials.

FREE TICKETS AVAILABLE TO 'SOUTH PACIFIC'

Faculty and staff are reminded to tell students that the Campus Activities Office will have free tickets available to "South Pacific." Not the geographical location, of course; rather, the Midland Music Society's Feb. 19 performance.

In addition, students can obtain free tickets for the March 18 performance of "Bernstein on Broadway," also a Midland Music Society production.

For information, call ext. 4170. The tickets are sponsored by Program Board.

'LET'S HAVE LUNCH SOMETIME' AT FRANKENMUTH'S FISCHER HALL

It is not really a proposal, but the production of "Let's Have Lunch Sometime" is in need of cast and crew members. The play by former SVSC Assistant to the President Stuart Gross will be performed at Fischer Hall in Frankenmuth.

The play premiered at SVSC in 1983 after the retirement of its co-playwright in 1979. The play takes a look at the joys and pitfalls of retirement. Gross said the storyline evolved from his own retirement, but is not an autobiography.

Since the 1983 premiere, the play has been slightly rewritten, according to Jim Gaertner, general manager of Fischer Hall and an SVSC graduate.

Auditions for the Frankenmuth performance are tentatively scheduled for March 7 and 8. Roles call for three women and two men, ages 40 to mid-60. Performances will be May 6, 7 and 8 and May 13 and 14.

For information, contact Gaertner at 652-9701.

SECRETARIAL/CLERICAL WORKSHOP FOCUSES ON DECISION MAKING

Self-hypnosis is among the decision-making skills to be discussed during a secretarial/clerical workshop on Thursday, Feb. 4.

Dr. Robert Cheek, assistant professor of management, also will talk about values clarification (both personal and those of the organization), and reactions to others.

The workshop will take place in Lower Level Doan. A morning session is scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. The afternoon session is from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Reservations are due Feb. 1 to the Personnel Office, extension 4112. The workshop is sponsored by the Professional Improvement Committee.

According to the committee, the program's goal is to teach participants the ways in which their values, reactions and mind control can affect everyday decisions, especially related to "hard-to-handle" people.

The committee hopes participants will walk away with the ability to apply independent decision-making skills; the ability to differentiate problem levels; and an understanding of how values influence decision making.
