AND THEY'RE OFF!

The Administrative Services Building -- once a building with a flurry of activity -- now looks a bit barren. Four offices are all that remain of the eight that once occupied the post-fire edifice. Two more of those departments will move on Friday; leaving the remaining pair alone until mid-February.

All that remain in the Administrative Services Building are the offices of the President, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Business and Industrial Development Institute and Information Services. The former two areas will migrate to third floor Wickes on Feb. 3.

The first ASB office to shift sites was Sponsored Programs, which did so in mid-January.

On the third floor of Wickes Hall, moving has reached a fever pitch as recently-moved offices establish new headquarters.

On Thursday, Jan. 26, the offices of Foundation, Institutional Research and Planning, and the Vice President for Administration and Business Affairs relocated to their corners of the third floor.

All offices formerly located in the Administrative Services Building (except Information Services) will eventually be on the third floor of Wickes Hall. Information Services will be located on the second floor of Wickes Hall.

The eight offices that have occupied the Administrative Services Building were many of those left "homeless" following a 1985 fire, which destroyed the Wickes Annex structure.

Other departments soon will possess the vacant offices of the ASB, including Business Services, Engineering Services, Personnel and Physical Plant.

JAPANESE-AMERICAN INTERNMENT REMEMBERED

Dr. Terry Ishihara, professor of mechanical engineering and technology, will discuss "Japanese-American Internment During World War II" at noon, on Thursday, Feb. 16 in the Student Lounge, across from the Zahnow Library.

Feb. 19 is observed by thousands of Japanese-Americans as the "Day of Remembrance" -- a time to reflect upon the mass imprisonment of Japanese-Americans during World War II.

Ishihara will discuss his experiences at one of the camps established through President Franklin Roosevelt's Executive Order No. 9066. The order called for the forced occupation of nearly 125,000 Japanese-Americans to concentration camps throughout the United States. Ishihara was in junior high school at the time. He later graduated from Tri-State High School in California.

Participants are encouraged to bring their lunch. Complimentary light refreshments will be provided by the program's sponsor -- the Melvin J. Zahnow Library Lecture Series.

An exhibit of books and related materials can be viewed in the first floor display case at the library.
