HOMECOMING 1989: OCT. 2 THROUGH OCT. 7

October 2, 1989

Lecture Series Includes Educator, Journalist

The 1989-90 Program Board Lecture Series includes four national figures noted for contributions in their respective fields.

The lecture series is new this year, according to Diane Brimmer, director of Campus Activities. She said the format was adopted from the former "Five Star Entertainment Series," which included variety shows in addition to lectures.

"The lectures were popular," she said. "We found the lectures were probably doing the best for us. We felt it was a twist we wanted to make.

"This is most appropriate for an academic community."

The series kicks off Tuesday, Oct. 10 with Joe Clark, the educator featured in the film Lean On Me. Clark recalls the first day of school in September 1981 when a stabbing occurred in New Jersey's Eastside High School. By 1982, Clark would turn the formerly violent school into a "model school," cited by the New Jersey governor. Clark has received national acclaim for his accomplishments, which earned him a Time magazine cover story and appearances on 60 Minutes, Donahue and Nightline. His accomplishments also are featured in the film Lean On Me.

On Monday, Jan. 15, Nicholas Daniloff, a journalist arrested in the Soviet Union in 1986, will discuss his incarceration. Daniloff was a reporter with U.S. News and World Report when he was arrested by the KGB and portrayed by the Soviet organization as an American spy. Daniloff now teaches at the JFK School of Government at Harvard University.

John Brubaker, co-author of the book The AIDS Epidemic, will be the guest lecturer on Tuesday, Feb. 5. Brubaker is a writer, lecturer and social scientist who has been researching and writing about the AIDS virus for more than a year. He is considered one of the few people in the country who can authoritatively discuss the spectrum of scientific and social issues related to the epidemic.

"We found the lectures were probably doing the best for us. We felt it was a twist we wanted to make. This is most appropriate for an academic community." -- Diane Brimmer, director of Campus Activities

The lecture series concludes on Thursday, March 29 with Sarah Weddington, the defense attorney in the historic Roe v. Wade case. At 21, Weddington was one of the first women to graduate from the University of Texas Law School. Five years later, she successfully defended "Jane Roe" in the landmark Roe v. Wade abortion case. In 1977, Weddington was appointed general counsel for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. She also has served as director of the Office of State and Federal Relations in Washington, D.C., as a legislator in the Texas House of Representatives, and was the first person to hold an endowed chair at the University of New Mexico.

All programs begin at 8 p.m. in the SVSU Theatre. Admission is $3 to the public; free to students. For additional information, contact the Office of Campus Activities at extension 4170.

Paintings by Dempsey on Display in University Art Gallery

Dempsey's works begin with photographs, which he takes to provide information, and grow to become large-scale acrylic paintings.

"I think of these paintings as homeless, historical, genre, portrait, chronicle murals," Dempsey has said.
