University Art Gallery schedules fall exhibits

The fall exhibition series in the SVSU Art Gallery begins September 3 with a collection of circus memorabilia and a separate display of works by illustrator Tom Pohrt.

"The Circus," an exhibition of historical posters, photographs and figurines, documents 40 years of circus life from 1912 through the 1950s. Loaned to SVSU in 1995 by Bill and Ann Thomas, the collection was assembled during their careers as members of the Flying Malzoras, a famous trapeze act from Saginaw. The Thomases performed throughout North America and are listed in the Guinness Book of World Records for their double pass with back somersaults. The exhibit brings to life the golden age of the circus.

The art of Tom Pohrt grows from his love of the myths and folklore of Native Americans.

He creates illustrations tracing from oral traditions dating to prehistoric times.

Raised in Flint, Pohrt inherited his interest in Native American culture from his father Richard, who assembled the Chandler/Pohrt Collection of Native American Art. Pohrt develops his ideas through preliminary drawings in pen and ink. The completed works are highly detailed watercolors for illustrated books. Coyote Goes Walking, published by Farrar, Straus and Giroux, NY, and Crow and Weasel, North Point Press, Berkeley, are recent works.

Awarded the American Institute of Graphic Arts Certificate of Excellence, Pohrt has exhibited in California and at the Flint Institute of Arts. He lives and works in Ann Arbor and now is under contract with Sierra Club Books.

Pohrt will be at the University Art Gallery on Wednesday, Sept. 18 to present an open address at 10 a.m. The exhibit continues through September 26.

The fall series will continue with paintings by Robert Rosier and images by Ken Graning in October. The last exhibition, scheduled November 6 through December 4, features work by sculptor Walter Nagel.

The Gallery is open to the campus community free of charge. For Gallery hours or information about the display series, call Gallery Director Barron Hirsch at ext. 4391 or the Fine Arts office at ext. 4159.

Limpopo to perform at SVSU

Recognized for their wild and crazy stage antics and music, Limpopo, a four-piece Russian "Folk-n-Roll" band, will perform as part of SVSU's Center Stage Performing Arts Series.

The performance will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 5 in Cardinal Gym. General admission is $3; all SVSU students are free and may bring one free guest.

Season tickets for the Center Stage Performing Arts Series are available through October 18. The cost for seven performances is $15.

Limpopo travelled individually to the United States from what used to be the Soviet Union in 1991. Once in the United States each member reunited in Los Angeles to start their new and improved band.

Limpopo's style departs from traditional folk music. The group offers rock, funk and renditions of old Russian, Latin and American favorites.

Members include Igor Yuzov, vocals, guitar, balalaika and melodramatic emotions; Oleg Bernov, vocals, upright bass, enormous bass balalaika and off-key vocals; Igor Khramov, vocals, trombone, balalaika and choreography; and Yuri Fedorko, vocals, accordion, balalaika, guitar, ankle bells, funny faces, dance and physical strength and endurance.

For ticket information, contact the Campus Life Center at ext. 4170.

SVSU Polish Students Club host pig roast

To help defray the costs of travel and college expenses for exchange students, the Polish Students Club is organizing a pig roast from 2 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15 at the Szepanski Villa (M-52 and Swan Creek Road).

Participants can listen to live music provided by Jim Lapeak while enjoying roasted pork and free pop. Each person should bring a dish to pass, and also may bring beverages of their choice. Other attractions include boating, swimming, fishing and volleyball. Those attending will be asked to offer a donation to the Club.

Each year, the Polish Students Club sponsors a variety of fundraising efforts, including several very popular bake sales on the SVSU campus that raise $300-400 per sale. The proceeds from each fundraiser are used to pay for exchange student expenses, including airfare, books and other educational costs.

According to club member Dina Wehner, Polish students studying at the SVSU campus have received as much as $1,000 for plane fare, and $500 for books. SVSU students studying in Poland also receive stipends from the Club.

For more information on the pig roast or the Polish Exchange Program, contact Wehner at 793-7903, or call Helen Scepanski at 865-9803.

Bagel Wagon discontinues operation

The Bagel Wagon, with its soup, hot dogs, muffins and other goodies, will not be returning to the first floor Zahnow corridor this fall. Instead, there will be expanded offerings in the Zahnow vending machines for those who desire a quick snack or meal.

"The Bagel Wagon was started several years ago because the old Doan Center Snack Bar was limited to seating about 96 people," said Jerry Woodcock, vice president for administration and business affairs. "At times the Snack Bar could not accommodate all who arrived."

Subsequently, Doan Center was renovated through a $5.5 million bonding project in preparation for linking to West Complex. "The new Doan Cafe has sufficient capacity to accommodate our current campus community," Woodcock said. He added that the volume of food sold at the Bagel Wagon has been decreasing since Doan Cafe opened.

Travel to Doan Center will become even more convenient when West Complex opens next January, he said. Those who want to avoid cold weather can follow the connecting corridors from their buildings through West Complex to Doan.

"We realize that people have come to like having food available on the east side of campus," Woodcock said. "Our long range planning includes considering a satellite food operation as the campus facilities and population expand in the future."

Discontinuing the Bagel Wagon will save about $30,000 in food transportation, labor and other operational costs, he said.

STAFF MEMBER

OF THE MONTH

Karen Hollenbeck

Senior
Programmer/
Analyst

September
1996

Karen Hollenbeck knows that she will have to make two deliveries during the month of September.

The first "baby" that she needs to deliver on time is a conversion of the Prime computer system over to the UNIX system.

"That is the major project that I'm trying to finish before the start of telephone registration for winter semester courses," Hollenbeck said. "It will be very important for me to make sure that all the information students receive now when they call to register will be available on the new system."

Along with the urgency of having the new UNIX system operational in time for telephone registration in November, Hollenbeck also expects to deliver her third child by Sept. 26.

SVSU staff who presently use PC terminals to access the Prime will notice a dramatic increase in speed once the UNIX system is on line, according to Hollenbeck.

"Users will notice immediately that the UNIX system responds much faster than the Prime does," she said. "For example, people will be able to log in instantaneously and won't have to wait as long to access information."

In addition to making progress on this task, Hollenbeck also continues to work with a number of campus departments who require computerized reports.

"I routinely work on preparing programming statements and reports for the Registrar's Office, Housing, Admissions, Minority Services and Institutional Research, to name a few," Hollenbeck said. She also has written programs that provide data on students who take the Course Placement Tests.

Hollenbeck started out at SVSU as a student in 1985. She completed her Bachelor of Science in data processing in 1987.

"Back then, it was called 'data processing,'" she said. "And right after I graduated, they changed the name of the program to 'Computer Information Systems.'"

In November 1987, she joined the Office of Computer Services as a full-time, permanent employee after working in a temporary capacity for a short period. As senior programmer/analyst, she is responsible for supervising one other programmer/analyst and several student employees. "We can get pretty overwhelmed with so much to do," she said, smiling.

One aspect of her job that Hollenbeck finds particularly appealing is "debugging" a program, which requires her to trouble-shoot the problem until she discovers the flaw and fixes it. "Every program is going to end up with a flaw eventually and will need to be adjusted to make it work because circumstances always change," she said.

Hollenbeck said that so far this year, she has responded to more than 100 requests for programming services.

In her spare time, Hollenbeck enjoys bicycling, basketball, step aerobics, baseball, and caring for her two children, Paul, 5, and Jessica, 3. She and her husband, Mike, live in Saginaw.
