

South Campus Complex C

South Campus Complex “C”, known for years as the “68” building was the second building to be constructed on campus. It added six classrooms as well as the first lecture hall and dining hall on campus. It’s currently home for campus receiving, print shop, mailroom and I.T.S. offices.

South Campus Complex C Building Data

Total square feet: 18,800

Original Construction

- 18,800 Sq. ft.
- Original Construction: 1968
- Architect: Schmidt, Thiel & Co. Architects
- Contractor: Charles C. Engelhardt Construction Co.