

SE&T Colloquium Series-Winter 2012

Speaker	Prof. Ed Meisel SVSU Greenhouse Director Department of Chemistry
Title	The Future of Gardening
Abstract	"Cultivate the gardener within." Are you a gardener? You may be surprised by the answer! What does the future of gardening hold in store for you? Residential gardeners are motivated by plants, although the body, mind, and spirit are close behind. Key environmental concerns to gardeners include conservation, peace of mind, and a connection to the earth. A beautiful day and no obligations mean it is time to work in the yard. Would you like to improve your gardening skills and learn more about how to correctly manage your soil, lawn, and garden? How about being able to grow more produce with less space, time, and work involved? Perhaps you would like to learn about some of the latest innovations, products, and ideas available for gardening. "The Future of Gardening" presentation will include the basics on how to improve upon several aspects of "residential and urban gardening" and you will learn why as the garden grows, so does the gardener.
Date	Tuesday, April 3
Time	4:10-5:00pm
Place	Pioneer 240
	Refreshments will be served at 4:00pm.