

Technology in Teaching Award

Do you know an SVSU faculty or staff member that you believe has shown exemplary use of technology in his/her teaching?

- Is this individual creative and innovative in the use of technology?
- If so, please nominate him/her for the Technology in Teaching Award!

This award was created in 2001 to recognize innovative and creative use of technology in teaching and includes a $1000 prize. Recipients are expected to:

- be full or part-time SVSU faculty and staff members.
- use technology in ways that excel in meeting the goals of departmental and/or college programs at SVSU.
- integrate relevant technology into teaching methods to enhance student learning in SVSU classrooms.
- demonstrate leadership by introducing previously unused technology into departmental and/or college programs or by encouraging colleagues to use technology in their teaching methods.

Finalists for this award will be notified and will be asked to submit additional materials as outlined below.

- A description of how technology is used in your courses or programs.
- How long and in how many courses or programs has the technology been employed?
- How the integration of technology has enhanced student learning in courses or programs. All
- forms of support and documentation are considered valuable. Examples include observations, student
- comments, or formal evaluation outcomes.
- A description of ways that this use of technology has inspired your colleagues to:
 - initiate or increase use of technology in their classes or programs
- and/or
 - enhance overall technology use in departmental or college programs.
